Fifth Avenue has seen many parades f women. It has seen the suffragettes in line; it has seen female Socialists and Anarchists tramping under the red flag: It has seen women members of labor unions marching to impress on the public the justice of their demands; it has seen women in their hundreds parading to urge reduction of the cost of living. But never before has it seen a tremendous outpouring of women asking nothing, giving everything, seeking only per-

There was a traing delay at the start, caused by the fact that the Great Lakes Band, which was to lead the parade, and which only got in from Chicago this morning, misunderstood directions as to the gathering place. At 12.12 o'clock, however, all was ready, and as the 350 musicians, led, by Lieut. John Philip Sousa, the body of mingled gray, blue and white moved forward. The units that could be placed in advance had formed at Eightieth Street and Fifth Avenue, and others that had been mobilized in the cross streets from there to Six. Let's Street fell into line without the Mashington delegation, which was headed by Mrs. I. M. Galloway, who carried the standard of the Service. In the second division units were led by Miss Laura Phillips and Miss Alice Mascomson of Ell's heand, Miss Frances Kehee, Mrs. Belsy Harris and Miss Florence, Machin of St. Mary's Hospital, Hobeken; Miss Carrie Brink of Belsvae, and Others that had been mobilized in the cross streets from there to Six.
